

- Very unequal level of electricity consumption per household: very high level in Finland (~8000 kWh), Sweden (~9000 kWh) and Norway (>10 000 kWh); heterogeneity due to different use of electricity for thermal uses and different level of household electrical appliance ownership (especially for most new EU members)

2007 for Estonia and Lithuania; 2006 for Portugal