

On average, cars require 4 times more energy to transport one passenger-km than public transport (rail transport and buses), and 5 times more than rail transport alone (trains, metro and tramways)

